

A quick modification to the Home page of the new Williams Family Tree website to show the latest articles from the new Blog Site. It seemed silly to have two places where information needed to be updated!

The general look of the “Latest News” will probably change over the coming weeks/months but at least it will show what is happening.