

I am always being asked “what relation are you to ... ?” and so I have added a ‘mod’ by Jeff Robinson to display the relationship between a ‘default person’ and the person currently being viewed.

Setting the current individual as the default person will initiate the relationship display which shows the relationship between the Default Person and Current Subject.

If you are a registered member with a Default Person assigned, just log in and the Default Person will then be the assigned person.

The Default Person can be changed to any person by clicking ‘Set As Default Person’ on that person’s page.

Relationship results between the Default Person and the Current Subject are displayed after calculation. A relationship chart may be viewed by clicking on the ‘Relationship Chart’ link.”

Also, I have 3/4 completed the transfer of the 1881 Census from the old database to the new one. The Welsh side has been done and well over half the English side. I may not get to finish this until after the festivities as the Navy Rum is now open and the glass at the ready!

Merry Christmas ...
