

(Rotten) Sod's Law!

With all the family problems we are having here at the moment I really didn't need a hard disk failure on my server but Samsung obviously felt differently. With an uncle just passed away, a good friend having a stroke and me in for my operation tomorrow it's all getting a bit much. Funny though, I had only just told a friend at work not to trust Samsung drives!

Still, the computer is now up and running with a bigger, better drive so we'll see how long it stays going! This means the personal blog is back albeit somewhat truncated!

Phil