

After yet another database crash I have decided to close the old w-f-t.co.uk website. The new website (williamsfamilytree.co.uk) is still not complete but it is usable and so much faster.

The scripts for the old site were well out-of-date and the database is now so large the system just couldn't cope.

I will, eventually, be transferring certain of the old utilities to the new site but this will all take time. Something that seems to be increasingly in short supply!

If there is anything you miss from the old site please let me know.

Phil.